A Grateful Patient Story: Jacquelyn's Comfort and Care at Ventura County Medical Center

An unexpected injury can arise at any given moment, often catching someone off guard and requiring immediate attention and care. This reality struck Jacquelyn Gargano, Program Director for the Ventura Ronald McDonald Family Room, when she sustained a back injury. When Jacquelyn arrived at the hospital, several medical professionals rushed to her aid, offering support to help her through a panic attack before taking her to the Emergency Room. During Jacquelyn's time in the emergency room, medical professionals provided her with some of the most high-quality patient care she had ever experienced. Additionally, Jacquelyn was touched to receive warm greetings from VCMC's housekeeping staff and security guards as they made their rounds through the hospital.

Reflecting on her positive patient experience at VCMC Jacquelyn said, "VCMC and the Ventura Ronald McDonald Family Room have become my second home. I am so blessed to be surrounded by nurturers and people with genuine care in their hearts." Jacquelyn's story serves as a reminder of the profound impact that VCMC medical professionals and staff play in providing comfort to patients during vulnerable and unfamiliar times. Their compassionate care enhances the patient's experience and cultivates a sense of community within VCMC and the broader Ventura County health and hospital system. Health Care Foundation for Ventura County deeply appreciates Jacquelyn's positive outcome at VCMC and her generosity in sharing her uplifting story with us.
